

She is...

Have you ever met your first love again? Everyone has a throb in their heart when they heard a word 'first love.' Besides, it recalls a pain in the breast to their mind. "The first love is always the best," said someone. That's why the first love remains a beautiful memory for everyone. How would you feel if you meet your first love again?

I learned English when I was a middle school student. I was not interested in English, but I loved English class. It seems weird. Actually I was interested in her. She was my English teacher who always taught me with a smile on her face. I liked her smile. Perhaps I liked everything about her. She was so kind to every student, but I thought it was only to me. I wanted to be special to her, so I thought I should get a good grade at English class. However, there was nothing more difficult than an English book. I was confused. I didn't like English, but I did like her.

One day I joined a pop-song club. It's not easy for me to sing in English. Besides, I didn't know any pop-song and what it meant. Why did I join that club? There's no reason without her. She taught pop-songs. I didn't understand why she likes pop-songs. Anyway I learned pop-songs hard because of her. Although I didn't do my math homework, I did analyze words of pop-songs. As a result, our relations had grown in intimacy, but my math teacher thought ill of me. However, I didn't care. I became to love English and her more.

My love was over by graduating. I saved all pop-song words in the back of a drawer. After 2 years, I received a letter from her, so I met again. I really missed her, but meanwhile I was afraid to meet. When I saw her again, she looked more beautiful. Then, is it a right thing to meet her again? My heart throbbed again because of her. However, it's something different. I really wanted to change her suggestion that I accepted to meet the wrong timing. The place that I was in was her wedding.

Now I've become the same age as her age in the past. She's already 33 years old. Jokingly I think it is good thing that I wasn't married to her. However, I'm still wondering why I love English. I remind her whenever I write in English. Perhaps, I'd be influenced by the first love all my life. Someone said, "The first love is always best."
