You love someone. He or she loves you too. You guys are truly fairly love with each other. Seems that no one can deny your love. But, you know? Some tests to prove your love are waiting for you behind. First, you buy some chocolates and candies that are packed beautifully. Second, you buy expensive gift such as wallet, shoes, bag, and clothes. Third, you buy some roses and silver ring (It should be only rose flower and real silver) Fourth, you can show your love through only kiss. Additional test is required, too. You take your lover to expensive restaurant doing those things above. Sounds hard? Then you might fail the test and it means you do not deserve to love.

What the heck what I'm talking about? It's about the things that we are supposed to do on certain days. Do you know valentines day, white day, kiss day, hug day, diary day, black day, pepero day, green day, rose day... those kind of day? you might know most of them briefly. Also I bet you have been kind of forced to care those day even sometimes especially you are a couple. Then I ask you. Why do you care? What brings you care such manufactured days?

These days are all talking about "Express your true LOVE through SOMETHING!" or "Buy SOMETHING so that you can show your true LOVE!" Isn't it cool thing that your true love will be judged by some standard? We are living in a fun generation. Culture has been developing in many ways so that we can live more enjoyable. So many fun things to do has been coming into our life as form of culture or entertainment. New fake holiday-which I mentioned above would be a also some cultural thing that we enjoy. But let me say one thing. Are you supposed to care about it even if it threaten your idea of true love and heart? You might never thought about it.

Many people has been started to obsess with giving and receiving some gifts on certain day. People give and take certain gifts because they even get to think it's their duty or manner for their partner. Some say they don't but I dare to say the culture itself have made which make us to do so. Let me have an example. Imagine that 'rose day' is coming this weekend and you are a guy who admire one woman. Then you might firstly think that 'I'm gonna buy some roses for her.' and next? 'How many roses do I have to buy? if I buy just one rose since I have not much money, she might misunderstand me. Then what I should do? The more roses, the more she loves me...'

The number of roses confuses your idea of love. I dare to day it is manipulating you. That is not only case of rose day. It is the case of all fake days. They are just manipulating our mind to buy something on those days and making us believe it is the best way to express your love!

How can they do that? Because business person know that every people needs love without exception. By touching this instinct, business people make a profit. They even hire the person who had a major in psychology to make their customer be satisfied by their own product, such as expensive and fancy candy, ring, chocolate and flower. These can be the tool to express our emotion, but it can't be replaced as our love.

I have to mention two words which are "Priceless and Invaluable". We think when the words are added to "-LESS or IN-" that usually mean "NO". But in this case we can know the meaning of these words. They mean "Worthy". Through this, we can get the truth that the real essential things around us look small even nothing, such as air, wind and mind(hope, love, joy) too. But without air, we can't live even an hour. When a person don't have hope or love, the person can commit suicide because of feeling of emptiness.

We need candy, chocolate and other products to our girl friend and boy friend even your parents, but the thing that we must put our first priority (value) is love which is intangible.
